

Media release

1 March 2011

STALLHOLDER APPLICATIONS NOW OPEN

Applications for stallholders at the Tasmanian Craft Fair are now open, and will close on April 1. This year's Fair will be held in Deloraine from November 4-7.

More than 240 stallholders took part in last year's Fair, spread across 14 venues throughout the town of Deloraine.

Stallholders are encouraged to demonstrate their craft-making skills on the stall as well as selling their wares.

Tasmanian Craft Fair Director John Dare said while there had already been significant interest from arts and craftspeople, he expected more applications to flow in during the next month.

"This year we really want to get back to the roots of the Tasmanian Craft Fair, which is a working craft fair featuring the best craftspeople demonstrating their craft to the public," Mr Dare said.

"We have refined the entry qualifications to include this and ensure that we continue to be the biggest and best working craft fair in the Southern Hemisphere.

"With 240 stalls last year we still had quite a few stallholders miss out, so anyone wanting to participate in this year's Craft Fair better get their skates on."

Potential stallholders can download an application form at www.tascraftfair.com.au or contact the Secretary, Nikki Atkins, on 0438 447 780.

The Tasmanian Craft Fair is an annual not-for-profit event conducted by the Rotary Club of Deloraine, featuring more than 240 stallholders from a wide variety of art and craft mediums. In the 30 years the Craft Fair has been held, more than $2 million has been raised to fund a variety of community projects.

For further information please contact:

Paula Catchpole, PCPR

0407 532 103; paula@pcpr.com.au

Presented by the
Rotary Club of Deloraine